8-JET CRASH BEING PROBED

BEEF SHORTAGE MAY BECOME ACUTE

OPS Checking Livestock Sales For Black Marketing

WASHINGTON, June 9—The government today is compiling a list of all persons who bought cattle at major stockyards this week to determine whether beef is being diverted into the black market.

Marvin Willig, chief of meat enforcement for the Office of Price Stabilization, said the list will be completed within a few days after OPS agents in the field file their reports.

The investigators were sent to check sales on the major markets where members of the "big four" packers claim they have been unable to buy cattle in compliance with OPS price ceilings.

Beef slaughtering has been curtailed at Chicago plants of Armour, Swift, Cudahy and Wilson. The cutbacks, combined with the lowest cattle receipts in more than three years, led to new predictions of retail beef shortages next week.

REPRESENTATIVES of the cattle industry said the scarcity will continue until after July 1 because producers will hold livestock until then to see if controls are extended. The present law expires June 30.

The House Agriculture Committee demanded yesterday that the government eliminate controls on beef, designed to roll back retail prices eight to 10 cents a pound by Oct. 1.

The demand met steadfast refusal from Price Stabilizer DiSalle who told reporters the rollback orders "stand." He repeated he has "every indication" the President still backs the program.

President Truman told legislative leaders and mobilization officials at the White House yesterday he feels "that the beef people are a reasonable and patriotic American group" and that something can be worked out to their satisfaction.

However, Presidential Secretary Short, filling in reporters on the meeting, emphasized that he was not implying any change in the present beef regulations.

Chairman Cooley, (D) N. C., of the House Agriculture Committee said the group will meet again if its demand is not answered and will work out proposed amendments to the Defense Production Act designed to exempt livestock from controls.

REPORTS FROM the Chicago stockyards indicated that small packers and eastern buyers purchased most of the cattle offered for sale this week.

Many paid above-ceiling prices, hoping to obtain cheaper cattle before the end of their accounting periods when they must be in compliance with the price lids.

Michael Howlett, O. S. regional director in Chicago, warned those buyers that the big packers will re-enter the market when the expected price drop occurs and may freeze out the little buyers.

That would leave them in violation since they could not show that the average prices paid over the accounting period fell within the ceilings.

Proposed Laws Would Hit Hard At Gamblers

WASHINGTON, June 9—Senate crime hunters acted today to clamp down on virtually every major form of interstate gambling.

A sweeping bill offered by Chairman O'Connor, (D) Mo., of the crime committee, would ban the transmission of bets by telephone, telegraph or mail and prohibit the shipment of lottery tickets and punchboards.

The measure, however, exempts "so-called wheels of chance and other simple games" which are used "in raising funds for a multitude of worthy causes," and pinball machines.

Legislation sponsored by Sen. Langer, (R) N. D., would bar the interstate shipment of race horses and racing dogs which compete for cash prizes in races where betting facilities are available.

O'Connor's bill would prevent the broadcast by a licensed radio station of any advertisement or information concerning lotteries or any "gift enterprise, or scheme of any kind" where money or prizes depend upon chance.

This apparently would cripple such foreign ventures as the Irish Sweepstakes. Under the bill, no punchboard advertisements or gambling payoffs can be carried in the mails.

PENS OF THE CHICAGO STOCKYARDS stand empty as the nation's cattle industry and the Office of Price Stabilization struggle over government-ordered rollbacks of beef prices. In Washington, Price Chief Michael DiSalle insists there is no general shortage of beef and that rationing is not in sight, and President Truman tells a news conference he does not believe beef producers have any intention of holding meat off the market.

Two Envoys Still Sought

3rd Man Linked To Mystery

LONDON, June 9—The mystery over the whereabouts of two vanished British diplomats, who know top American and British secrets, deepened today while authorities pressed a search for a mysterious "third man."

It was unofficially reported that Scotland Yard Superintendent L. E. Wilkinson Ronald was already in Paris attempting to track down the "third man" who sent telegrams to the families of the missing men signed with their names.

At the same time there were mounting unconfirmed reports that the two missing men—Donald D. MacLean and Guy Burgess—might already be in Russia or one of the satellite states.

A spokesman for the French ministry of the interior declared: "No trace of the diplomats have been found since they boarded a train at Rennes."

He added that all attempts to trace them in Paris or elsewhere in France have been in vain and declared that reports one or

BUILDING CURB CHANGE DUE

2,500-Square-Foot Home Soon To Require Permit

WASHINGTON, June 9—The government will revise controls on "luxury" housing next week requiring builders to obtain a federal permit for new homes larger than 2,500 square feet in floor space.

The new restriction replaces an order now in effect prohibiting the building of homes costing more than $35,000 without approval from the National Production Authority.

NPA officials say the dollar limitation was an impractical control because construction costs vary widely from city to city. The new plan is viewed as a "fair" method of handling the problem.

The net result in limiting construction will be about the same. The average three-bedroom home consists of 1,150 square feet of floor space, so officials say a rather large home still may be built free from controls.

Generally, basements will not be considered in figuring floor spaces unless the area is to be finished off for use as living quarters.

IN ANOTHER MOVE, NPA has re-shuffled the handling of construction permits, turning much of the authority over to Raymond M. Foley's Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Under the new setup, HHFA, the Public Housing and the Federal Housing Administration will issue the permits instead of NPA offices in Washington and other parts of the country.

Four types of construction will be authorized by the HHFA agencies. They are:

Large apartment houses; "luxury" housing; commercial buildings, such as stores, constructed in conjunction with

Fireworks Blaze Kills 3 Tots

CHICAGO, June 9—Three small children perished yesterday in flames presumably touched off by fireworks in the third floor Chicago apartment of a 40-year-old frame house occupied by 27 persons.

The fire broke out after Edward Vaisvilas, 23, had set off some skyrockets. Dead are Nora Jean De Wald, 2, her sister, Shirley Mae, six months, and Venus Vaisvilas, 10 months. Three others were hurt.

Bride-Slayer Gets No Mercy

KENTON, June 9—Chester B. Gregg, 37, faces death in the electric chair today for the slaying of his bride of last Summer.

A Hardin County jury deliberated only 90 minutes yesterday before returning a verdict of guilty of first degree murder without mercy in the shooting of Mrs. Alma Golliday Gregg, 46.

3 Airforce Pilots Lost In Mishap

Weather, Sabotage Both Considered

RICHMOND, Ind., June 9—Airforce authorities today clamped a security guard around the 25 square mile South-eastern Indiana area where eight jet fighter planes crashed yesterday, killing three pilots and injuring two others.

Witnesses were stunned when the F-84 Thunderjets — part of a 37-ship formation — dropped out of the sky, one after another, near Richmond.

An investigation was opened immediately into the mass air tragedy—one of the most expensive in peacetime history. Each jet cost $275,000 to build and the estimated total loss of the eight runs to $2.2 million.

The probe is expected to cover an inquiry into the effect of atmospheric disturbances—such as electrical storms—on the super-speedy jet craft.

Airforce officials at Selfridge Field, Mich., said a board of inquiry will convene today to question jet pilots who were in the flight.

THE AIRFORCE PUBLIC information officer, Capt. Arthur F. McConnell, said sixty of the planes reached Selfridge without mishap and three others turned back to Wright-Patterson.

McConnell said the board of inquiry will question the jet pilots today in the belief that the thunderstorm did not cause the accidents. He would not say, however, what did cause the planes to crash.

The pilots who made it safely to Selfridge Field will not be allowed to leave the area immediately.

Investigators also are expected to delve into the possibility of sabotage.

Columbus Faces Bus Cancellations

COLUMBUS, June 9—Columbus is threatened again today with another shutdown of intracity bus operations.

W. Glover Porter, president of the Columbus Transit Co., announced late yesterday that all the buses and trolley coaches in the city will stop running "not later than June 20."

Officials took the threat of stoppage as a "bluff" to force the city to accede to the company's demand of a straight ten-cent fare.

PEDESTRIANS GET CONSIDERATION

Colorful Plastic Buttons To Dot Court-Main Corner

Circleville safety department is going to try something new in the way of street markers.

Safety Director C. O. Leist said Friday that the department has ordered 400 "buttons" for installation at the intersection of Court and Main streets.

The "buttons" were described as plastic pegs with rounded tops, something like inverted saucers. The pegs will be driven into the pavement and cemented down, forming permanent cross walks. Half the "buttons" ordered are white, the rest yellow.

Leist said the yellow markers will be placed behind the cross walks on the right side of each approach to the intersection. Traffic halted for the stop light will be required to stay behind the yellow line.

"WE'RE GOING to give them a trial at Court and Main streets," the safety director said. "If they work there, we might use them at other intersections."

Leist said that work of painting center lines in streets is continuing.

"So far," he went on, "we have used 35 gallons of paint. The stuff costs $2.85 a gallon."

That's $99.75 worth of painted lines.

The safety director said he was giving some consideration to painting lines designating cross walks yellow.

"Perhaps if they were painted yellow it would slow down this business of motorists stopping right in the middle of cross walks, forcing pedestrians to go around them."

He said he had issued instructions to the police department to be on the lookout for motorists who block lanes set up for pedestrians at intersections.

"I have also told the police to put tags on cars found parked on sidewalks," he added.

tions made by MacArthur, Gen. Wedemeyer, and Admiral Spruance.

MacArthur's denunciation of testimony given senators probing his removal from command came as Acheson returned to the witness stand for his eighth appearance.

MACARTHUR SAID in a telegram to Sen. Knowland, (R) Calif., that he found it "almost beyond belief" that anyone should read such an inference into a telegram he and other Far Eastern military leaders sent to Washington on June 7, 1945.

Knowland had queried MacArthur regarding testimony by Acheson about the 1945 telegram from MacArthur, Adm. Spruance and Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer.

Acheson said the 1945 message stated "it is suggested that the TOKYO, June 10—(Sunday)—Elements of 200,000 Chinese Communist troops began abandoning their great Central Korean "iron triangle" Saturday.

A late Saturday night field dispatch said remaining Communist troops in the area were putting up only "token opposition" to the United Nations drive which slammed out gains of more than a mile.

Previous field dispatches and the Eighth Army's Saturday night communique indicated earlier in the day the Chinese and North Korean Reds were fighting for every inch of ground.

The new withdrawal from the Kumhwa-Chorwon - Pyongyang "iron triangle" means that the Chinese are giving up the build-up area from which they launched two ill-fated offensives into South Korea.

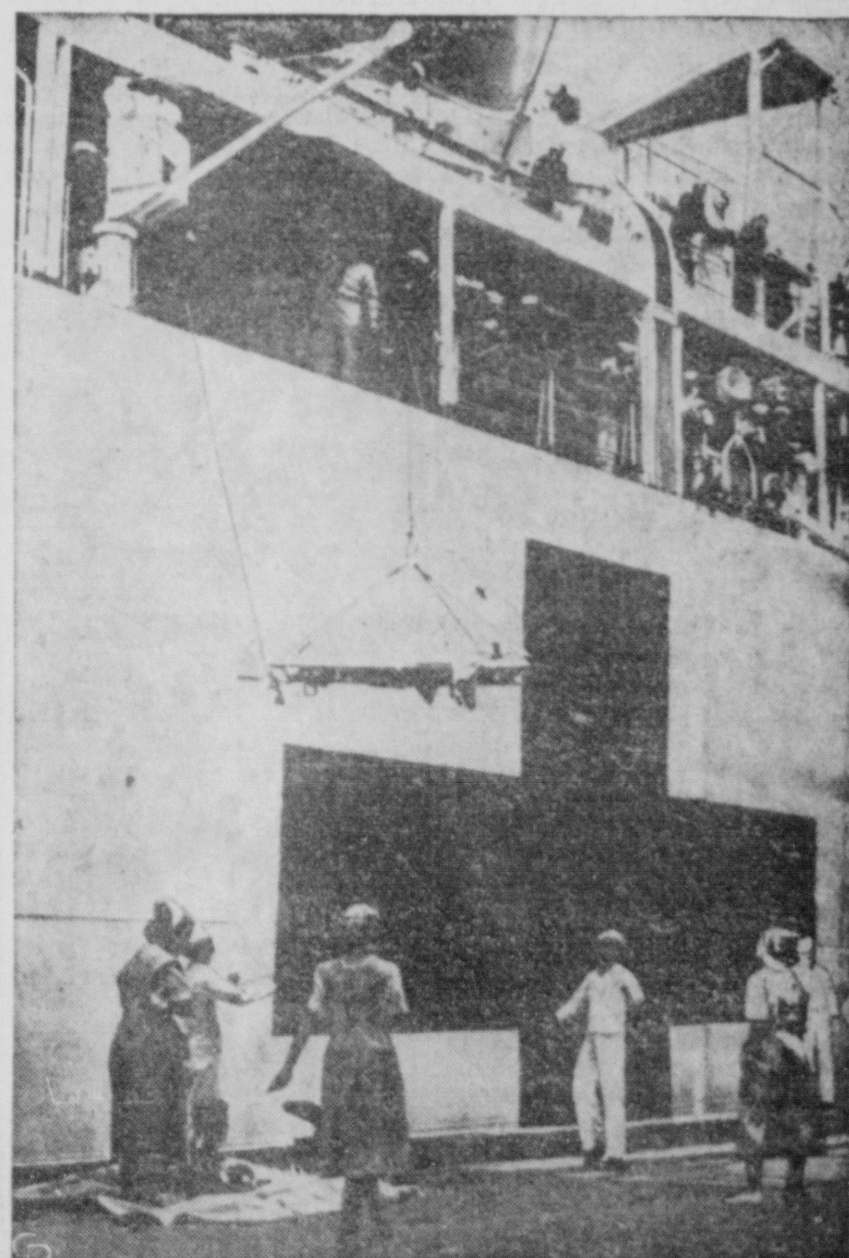

The Eighth Army's Saturday evening communique reported heavy resistance all along the central front from the eastern Inje sector to Yonchon on the west.

But Allied gains ranged from more than a half mile to more than two miles despite the heavy mortar and small arms fire from entrenched Red positions.

3 Airforce Pilots Lost In Mishap

Bryce Long, who walked away from a crash landing unhurt, said "the weather had nothing to do with the crashes." He reported:

"My engine exploded at 17,000 feet."

An Airforce spokesman said one plane was carrying "highly classified" material. Military air police kept photographers and newsmen away from the scene where that plane crashed near Williamsburg, nine miles northwest of Richmond.

Gen. Curtis LeMay, top officer of the Airforce Strategic Command, was reported to be personally conducting the investigation.

THE 37 JET PLANES flew into a thunderstorm just 10 minutes after they had taken off from Wright-Patterson Field near Dayton enroute to Selfridge Field.

Lightning began flashing in the sky and the eight ill-fated jets started to fall off.

Two of the fighter planes roared into a field outside of a piston plant near Richmond. One exploded and the other bored 15 feet into the ground. Both pilots were killed.

The third airman was killed when his plane crashed in a farm field near Mooreland.

Four of the pilots crashed-landed their planes, two escaping unhurt. The eighth pilot, Maj. Richard Willie, parachuted to safety.

Names of the dead airmen were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The injured pilots were Capt. Robert Jackson, 24, and Lt. John R. Bonard. Jackson suffered face lacerations and was taken to Reid Memorial hospital in Richmond.

Bonard suffered head injuries and authorities at the county hospital in New Castle said he was being transferred to the Wright Field hospital.

Jackson's plane cracked up near the runway of the Richmond airport. He staggered away from the wreckage and could only explain the accident by saying:

"My motor just conked out and we dropped to earth."

Pickaway County Canneries Open Annual Pea Pack

Pickaway County's canneries were moving into their heavy season Saturday as they took on their annual pea pack.

A spokesman for Esmeralda Canning Co. said that first indications showed that both quality and quantity would be equal or better than previous crops. Esmeralda started its pea pack Thursday.

Winor Canning Co. started its pack Friday, but was slowed Saturday by the overnight shower.

A spokesman for the Crites firm said its Ashville plant got a good start Friday and expectations point to a bumper crop.

The Crites spokesman said that "we have our fingers crossed—no pea lice have shown up so far."

He explained that this pest "shows up overnight" and damages the crop by destroying the vines.

Local Woman Is Bruised In Auto Smash

Laura Smith, 59, of Haywood avenue suffered a minor injury in a traffic accident at the intersection of North Court and Haywood avenue Friday.

The accident happened at 9:30 p. m. when a car driven by Florence Valentine, 39, of Stoutsville and another operated by Donald R. Crist, 23, of 432 1/2 North Court street collided, according to Circleville Police Officers C. E. Thompson and John White.

The officers said the Valentine vehicle was making a turn onto Haywood avenue when the crash with the southbound Crist auto took place.

Laura Smith, a passenger in the Valentine car, suffered an injured knee. She was taken to Berger hospital for treatment, later returned to her home.

Mac Brands As Lie Story He OK'd China Coalition

United States' assistance to China be made available as a basis for negotiation by the American ambassador to bring together and effect a compromise between the major opposing groups in order to promote a unified democratic China.

Knowland said the message implied that MacArthur favored a coalition and asked for the deposed general's comment.

In his reply, MacArthur recalled that at the time of the message China was faced with a "complete breakdown" of unity and Chiang Kai-shek was trying to "effect a sound basis for political unity through the call of a convention reasonably representing tative of all segments of the people."

The general said that it was this effort that prompted the meeting of himself, Wedemeyer, Spruance and others in Tokyo to formulate a proposed American policy to be sent to Washington. He declared:

"HAD IT BEEN intended to convey the interpretation which has been loosely given the message you may be sure that the three who signed it would have so stated in unequivocal language."

MacArthur said that the purpose of the plan he, Wedemeyer, and Spruance devised "was to strengthen the hand of the existing government with which we had been allied in war to resist a tendency to revert to the traditional China compartmented under warlords with little or no federal allegiance and engaged in perpetual internecine conflict."

MacARTHUR DECLARED that the Communists, while representing a minority faction at that time, were a "distinct threat" to the unification being sought because they did not recognize the supremacy of federal power. He continued:

"They consequently had to be destroyed by force or dealt with politically just as we have since successfully done in Japan."

"It was felt that the American ambassador by a wise and judicious play upon the potential of American assistance might materially strengthen Chiang's efforts to secure political unification through discouragement of all movements which opposed it by force."

Localite Gives 1909 Hubcap To Florida Museum

Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise was given a note of thanks Friday from Ft. Myers, Fla., where he and Mrs. Wise recently visited during a vacation.

The chief and Mrs. Wise toured the Edison museum in Ft. Myers during their vacation, and noticed that one of the exhibits, a Model T Ford, was without one of its hubcaps.

The ancient Ford, of 1909 vintage, was a present to Edison by Henry Ford and as such was preserved in the museum.

Wise told the museum authorities of the missing hubcap and said he thought he had a hubcap to fit the relic back in his auto parts shop in Circleville.

On returning to Circleville, the chief mailed the hubcap to Ft. Myers and received in return a note of thanks from the museum.

133,400 new houses and apartments.

FEDERAL RESERVE Board officials have indicated that the board may decide to mildly relax credit controls if another substantial decrease in home building is reported for May.

According to NAHB, the regulations have also had a substantial effect on employment in the residential construction industry.

The association says 630,000 building workers have been laid off since last Fall. Most of the workers have drifted into industrial construction and other jobs.

However, the Labor Department says unemployment for the entire industry is "spotty" with scarcities as well as over-supply of workers making up the picture.

The construction industry, bolstered by plant expansion programs, started building projects worth an unprecedented $15 billion during the first three months of this year.

NPA reports that construction was moving at a $30 billion adjusted annual rate during the period and this was 20 percent above the rate for the first three months of last year.

JESUS AND HIS MINISTRY

HE CAME TO GIVE HIS LIFE FOR MANY

Scripture—Luke 4: 15; 19:1-10; Mark 10:45; John 3:16; 12:44-50.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
NEVER WAS the world more in need of a Saviour to tell us how to get rid of our selfishness, hatred, prejudices and other un-Christian feelings and actions, and to learn to live as Jesus would have us—and as He lived.

Once more our lesson takes us to the beginning of Jesus' ministry, and we read of the things He did and of the way He spoke, and wish He were here with us on earth now to help us to see how we can make the world a place worthy of Him.

Political parties in every country quarrel and call names; governments rise and fall; all seems chaos, with brother battling brother, and young men dying as warfare rages, while civilians lose their homes, possessions and lives.

After the baptism of Jesus, He "lived with the Holy Spirit," went into the wilderness where He was tempted by Satan. You remember how the Master withstood these, and how He told Satan to be gone.

He then went to His old home, Nazareth, and on the Sabbath He went into the synagogue, and stood up to read, and this is what He read:

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me, because He hath anointed Me to preach the gospel to the poor; He hath sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, 'To preach the acceptable year of the Lord.'"

Then He closed the book and began to talk. So gracious were His words that the people who had known Him from childhood were amazed and asked one another if this was indeed Joseph and Mary's son whom they had known so long.

Jesus told them that "No prophet is acceptable in his own country," and His further remarks amazed them so that they took Him up into a mountain that overlooked the town, and would have thrown Him off to His death, but He slipped through the crowd and went away. How quickly people change from amazement and wonder to anger!

Later on in His ministry, crowds followed Him, for His fame spread about. He had healed the sick, cast out demons, and all the people brought their sick, lame, blind, deaf, and demon-possessed to Him to be healed.

The publicans and sinners flocked to hear and see Him; even the Scribes and Pharisees came, but they hoped to trip Him. They accused Him of consorting with sinners.

Highroads Of Universe

In our consideration of the causes of war we come this week to an important economic cause: The overwhelmingly powerful influence of the wealthy few upon the world's political affairs.

Following World War I, there was a time when the reading public felt fairly certain that there was only one basic cause of war, and that was the willingness of a few rich families of the world to inspire war in order to make profits in their business. The "munitions makers" and "international bankers" were given all the blame.

The United States Senate carried out an extensive investigation to ascertain the facts concerning the financial background of the war. Novels were written and movies were made depicting the menacing network which threatened the individual of all lands as a mere pawn, not in the hands of government but in the hands of a few sinister men who controlled all governments by the power of their purses.

But there is a more subtle way in which huge wealth in the hands of a few precipitates war. When any mention of a change in the present framework of society is made, the person or group making the suggestion is at once branded as radical and dangerous to society. The fact remains, however, that the total social order cannot always be exploited by the fortunate few.

Dedication Rite Planned Sunday In Calvary EUB

A special service of dedication of new altar ware will be a part of the worship service Sunday in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church. A new set of altar ware including a brass cross, matching candle sticks and wax savers has been purchased for the church by the Dorcas Pathfinder Class and will be presented and dedicated in the service. Mrs. William Clark, president of the class will present the gift of C. O. Leist, president of the board of trustees of the church. The Rev. James A. Herbst will lead in the service of dedication. During the service the pastor will explain the symbolism and use of the cross and candles in the church as well as other items of symbolism.

An annual "Children's Day" service will be held in the church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

The service will open with a congregational hymn, followed by a "Welcome," given by Nancy Thomas. Then will follow an exercise "Little Deeds" by Dwight Wilson, Joyce Herbst, Betty Cline and James Bost.

The program will continue as follows: recitation, "My Verse" by Darlene Miller; exercise, "Our Savior Loves the Children," Precious Mets, Michael Brucker, Miriam Wilkinson, Ralph Arledge, Carol Wise, Elaine Smith and Jerry Shastee.

The kindergarten class will present two songs, "Joy, Joy, Joy" and "Jesus Was Kind"; recitations by Virginia Wilson, Carolyn Seyfang, Ruth Brungs, Donna Woodward, Iona Graham and Paula Kay Francis; a dialogue, "Overwork," by Brent McCollister, Jerry Francis, Jon Anderson, Freddie Stewart and Harold Manbeavers.

Also reciting will be Jon Anderson, Wanetta Walisa, and Sharon Wetthe and two finger play exercises by the whole class.

The primary class will have the following recitations: "Child's Day Prayer" by Sharon Smith; "Just Like Me" by Betty Conrad; "A Message For All" by Linda Quincel; "A Child's Prayer" by Thelma Bensonhaver and Bonnie Thomas; "He Leads Me" by Bertha Morris; "Open the Door for the Children" by Louise, Mary and Arlene Smith; and "The Solution" by Mary Fox.

The boy's primary class will present an exercise entitled "Jewels." Boys participating will be Joseph Willson, Charles Fraley, Boyd Dumm, Richard McCollister, Larry Quincel and James Bensonhaver. Recitations will also be given by Gary Stewart and Michael Leist.

The program will be concluded with a flower pageant given by Betty Russell, Sally Redman, Sally Lutz, Toni Agin, Betty Jane White, Mary Jane White, Linda Lagore, Cynthia Graham, Patricia Walisa, Patricia Young and Gloria Good. Sue Edgington will recite "My New Dress" and the Rev. Mr. Herbst will close the service with benediction.

without further economic chaos ensuing.

A fundamental cause of war, therefore, is the obstructive unwillingness which the very wealthy—and many even who are not so wealthy—have usually shown to cooperate with the common people of the world to bring about "peaceful change" for the better.

Leaving these economic factors, let us go on to a consideration of two other major causes of war—the psychological and the ethical.

The psychological causes of war may be grouped as follows: (1) the "predatory" temperament, or disposition, of the nation; (2) ideologies which governments formulate to "condition" their people for national self-assertion; and (3) the "fear-anger" drive which kindles hatred toward rival nations.

One can hardly disagree with Veblen and Tagore that the world's political and economic structure has followed man's insatiable desire to accumulate possessions. The foreign policies of the "power" nations have been directed toward that end.

Tagore holds that Western "nationalism" has had this as its sole purpose: "The truth is that the spirit of conflict and conquest is at the origin and in the centre of the Western nationalism; its basis is not social cooperation. . . It is like the pack of predatory creatures that must have its victim."

Modern wars are caused in predominant measure, therefore, by the determination, on the one hand, of the "have" nations to keep what their predatory exploits acquired for them decades ago; and on the other hand, of the "would have" nations to take some of these desirable possessions away from these rival powers.

Lutherans Plan 2 Services For Communion Rites

Communion will be celebrated Sunday in Trinity Lutheran church during two worship services, one at 9 a. m. and the other at 10:30 a. m.

Ray F. Kibler, student pastor, will preach the confessional sermon based on the theme, "The Characteristics Of A Forgiven Sinner."

Senior choir will sing the anthem, "Sing Of His Wonders" in first service, and the junior choir will sing "Create In Me A Clean Heart O God" in the later service.

Communion will also be celebrated in Christ Lutheran church, Lick Run, at 2 p. m. Sunday.

The Luther League will conduct a vesper service in the church auditorium at 6 p. m. Sunday. Miss Carolyn Wolford will be in charge of the service.

Following the service, the League will engage in an outdoor social hour which will be climaxed with a Weiner roast.

Second week of the daily vacation Bible school will begin at 9 a. m. Monday and will continue through Friday afternoon, when a "he-man bike hike" will be held.

Youngsters attending the Lutheran Bible school concluded their first week of school early Friday, with an "early-bird" breakfast party in Ted Lewis Park.

Seven twin-burner gasoline stoves were kept busy frying eggs and bacon served to more than 200 youngsters attending the party. Milk was served to round out the menu.

A total of more than 300 are enrolled in the Lutheran Bible school, including the teaching staff. The program will be ended June 24 with a special program during worship service in the church.

Four departments have been set up to teach the boys and girls, with special hobby classes in woodworking, soap carving, needlework and workbooks. One of the major projects under construction is an electric "question and answer" board.

Union Bible School Ends 1st Week Of Classes

Union vacation Bible school completed its first week with a registration of 331 children and staff.

The opening day featured a birthday party honoring the 50th anniversary of daily vacation Bible schools in this country, and a film, "Child of Bethlehem," was shown.

Since the theme of the school is "Learning from Jesus" this year's program is built around the life and teachings of Jesus. On Wednesday the film "The Good Samaritan" was shown, and on Friday the film "God's Wonders in the Woodland Brook." Each class is doing handwork that is related to its lessons.

Outdoor activities are being planned for each department.

The primary children had a breakfast hike to Ted Lewis park Thursday, and the intermediates held a bicycle hike Friday.

The juniors will have a breakfast in Ted Lewis park Tuesday and the all-school picnic will be held June 19.

MITCHELL WAS RIGHT

GENERAL Vandenberg's recommendation of increased air power as a means of insuring national security bring to mind the story of Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, whose outspoken pleas for increased emphasis on air power in warfare led to his court martial and suspension from the Army.

One of the first Army aviators, Mitchell commanded the American Air Force in Europe during World War I. After the war Mitchell spoke out strongly for increased air power.

He told a congressional committee that "we can destroy, put out of commission, or sink any battleship that can be built," with proper air power. He proved his claim by sinking several captured German ships. He also charged incompetency and negligence in high military circles, as a result of which charges were brought against him. Mitchell's theories gained wide acceptance as World War II approached, the court martial was revoked by act of Congress and his rank restored posthumously. He died in 1936.

The Navy today is in fine shape and ready for service. The Army is growing, but will never equal in manpower that of Russia. The Air Force is in process of being doubled. Eventually it may be tripled in size.

General Mitchell long ago was vindicated. His memory is held in high regard for having seen more than a quarter of a century ago the role of air power in national security.

THE MONTH OF PEAS

SO NOW it's June, the month of roses—and peas. We can't honestly say that roses mean all they once did, since they go with commencements and weddings and such youthful festivities, but we'll take 'em just for their beauty and fragrance. As for the peas, who wouldn't take them!

The garden kind, we mean. The kind you put in when you go around to it, provided you didn't wait too long and they will bear before the warm weather puts an end to them. Any kind that puts peas in the pot—always provided there are enough of 'em.

Peas take quite a bit of garden space, for you have to plant more than a skimpy packet if you hope to get any kind of a harvest. But a couple of long double rows of Little Marvels will produce a profusion of short pods packed full of green goodness. All you have to do is pick 'em in the late afternoon, shuck 'em and barely bring 'em to a boil. They melt on your tongue.

We were about to say, when we thought of peas, that June is the month of a lot of things. It is, too. The fields and trees are fully clothed in their new green, now. All the birds are back—singing. And it's strawberry time. Shortcake goes well after a big helping of peas. Oops! There we are, back almost where we started.

Defense Production Act Extension Seen Probable
GOP's Taft and Capehart Voice Control Necessity

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Capitol consensus is that Congress will go along with an extension of the present Defense Production act but not with the President's recommended changes for a stiffer law. A prospect that legislators will give in to the terrific pressure to drop price and wage controls from the act seems to be out. This is in spite of the opposition of such powerful groups as the National Association of Manufacturers and the several agriculture groups that have been testifying recently before congressional committees.

Continuation seemed assured when such Republican stalwarts as Senators Robert A. Taft, Ohio, and Homer Capehart, Indiana, agreed that controls would have to remain in effect. In fact, Taft has flatly forecast an extension. He says it has to be done in view of the rearmament of inflationary pressures which all agree gradually are building up. In view of the current slow progress in Congress on consideration of the bill, however, it appears a temporary extension of the present law may be passed. Wrangling over President Truman's proposals for a year-to-year farm parity freeze, stronger rent controls and whether to drop all controls indicates the legislators will be far from finished with the extension when the current law expires June 30.

A straight extension of one to six months may be voted, pending

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Dean Acheson's testimony on China was in many respects revealing. While his recitation of Chinese history for the period under discussion was, in the main, correct as to dates, names, and places, he did not provide evidence of an understanding of the spirit of the Chinese people.

His testimony, however, makes startling omissions, perhaps because he is a lawyer who writes his brief to conform to the necessities of his case.

For instance, Acheson notes that by 1945, the Chinese Nationalists' will to fight had degenerated seriously. All this is true, but not the whole truth. Let us put it chronologically:

1. From 1926 to this very day, Nationalist China has been at war with the Chinese Communists;

2. From Sept. 19, 1931, until Aug. 14, 1945 (V-J Day), Nationalist China was at war with Japan;

3. The United States entered that war on Dec. 8, 1941; Soviet Russia entered that war on Aug. 8, 1945. Therefore, Nationalist China was at war with Japan, alone and unaided, for more than 10 years before we joined that country as an ally and fought for almost four years alongside us, and for six years against the Communists since then.

Is there any wonder that Nationalist China was tired; that its armies had suffered war-fatigue; that its people wanted peace at any price?

Acheson omitted this chronology from his statement and therefore his statement lacks coherence. One might ask, why, if the Chinese fought Japan for 14 years, did they stop fighting the Russians? The answer could be that they were worn out. That, of course, was the answer.

Again, Acheson states: "The Yalta agreements were made in the very early part of 1945. Later on, in August of '45, treaties were signed between the Chinese Nationalist government and the Soviet Union, which grew out of and were based upon these Yalta agreements."

He omitted to say that it was the President of the United States who pressed China, then a country dependent upon us, to accept the Russian treaty to which Acheson refers. In fact, the Yalta agreement, signed by Joseph V. Stalin, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill stipulates as follows:

"It is understood, that the agreement concerning outer Mongolia and the ports and railroads referred to above will require concurrence of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. The President will take measures in order to obtain this concurrence on advice from Marshal Stalin.

"The heads of the three great powers have agreed that these claims of the Soviet Union shall be unquestionably fulfilled after Japan has been defeated.

"For its part the Soviet Union expresses its readiness to conclude with the national government of China a pact of friendship and alliance between the USSR and China in order to render assistance to China with its armed forces for the purpose of liberating China from the Japanese yoke."

DIET AND HEALTH

Children Who Have Flat Feet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AVERAGE American parents are definitely "foot-conscious," so much so, in fact, that they often worry needlessly for fear their children will develop some foot defect which will prove handicapping in later years.

The most frequent source of concern is the apparent flat foot so often found in babies and little children. As a matter of fact, the normal foot is flat in the infant since the part of the foot which forms the arch is filled in with a pad of fat until the child is about three years old.

Flat Feet

Some youngsters do have true flat feet from birth but this type of flat foot will stand as much hard use as the normal one without producing pain or other disability. The only treatment such a child needs, provided there is no marked turning in of the ankles, is a good pair of Oxford shoes which give him the opportunity for complete freedom of exercise of the foot muscles during normal play. Children should also be encouraged to play in their bare feet in beach sand or on clean grass when the weather permits. Going barefoot exercises many muscles which would not otherwise be brought into play.

A number of parents are also concerned because their children walk pigeon-toed. This is normal in children for they are unconsciously using the muscles which strengthen the arches. A parent should not discourage a young child who has a slight tendency to "toe in" when walking.

Proper Shoes

The chief thing parents can do to safeguard their children's feet is to provide them with proper fitting shoes. Tennis shoes may be used for an hour or two each day, but not longer. High top shoes serve definitely as a splint to the ankle. If worn too long, they will prevent free movement of the tendons of the ankle with resulting weakness of the ankles.

The child should wear an Oxford with a strong leather sole. There should be ample room in the toes of the shoes and adequate width and length. The heel portion of the shoes should fit snugly, and no metal plates should be used in children's shoes to support the arches.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. H.: Is there such a thing as swollen glands in the neck? Can anything be done for it?

Answer: The glands in the neck, which become swollen so frequently, are known as the lymph glands and belong to the system which drains the mouth, tonsils, teeth, and nose. Frequently, infections in these areas cause swelling of the lymph glands. After the infection clears up, these glands decrease in size, but, in most cases, do not return to normal.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

FRAZIER FARWELL glided into the room. He held a black automatic close in front of him, the bore on a level with McGann's stomach, and an evil smile lay on his lips. McGann met the eyes that drilled into his with full knowledge. Farwell's pupils had shrunk to pinpoints. The calm of powerful drugs showed in the unwavering muzzle of the gun.

"You couldn't just let it go, could you?" Farwell said. His tone was on a single key, the voice thick. "They would have said she killed herself because she was sorry for what she had done. Everyone would have been happy. But you couldn't just let it go. Oh, no. Not you."

McGann looked into the tiny eyes, not moving. He said quietly, "More killing won't get you out of this. You're a dead man. Let the girl go."

The muzzle came up a fraction of an inch. "We're all dead now," Farwell said. He chuckled, changing his voice and McGann felt a cold chill as Ronnie Tompkins seemed to speak. "I want you to prevent my murder, Mr. McGann," he said mockingly. "But, of course, I asked you to do that once before and you failed. Now you can't even prevent your own."

The glass of the study window shattered as Wexton came through with the flying splinters. Farwell whirled and the crash of the gun blotted out the shivery tinkle. McGann's left hand closed on the hot barrel, wrenching it free with a single twist. The pinpoint pupils shot one fearful look into his and then McGann felt his right fist lashing out and the crunch of jawbone against knuckles.

Farwell bounced off the wall and crumpled crazily. McGann gave him a single glance, stepped over Wexton, who still lay where he had fallen, and knelt beside Chary. A movement flung aside the deadly cloth and then he had her in his arms at the open window where the fresh breeze tore the fumes from their faces and the stars dimmed in the first streaks of light.

Dink Wexton finished talking to rewrite and put the phone back on Tompkins' desk. He fixed McGann with a stern eye. "Twenty minutes," he said. "That's all I ask. Then you can call anybody you want."

McGann grinned. "Fair enough—if Chary feels all right." "I'm fine now," she said.

He was holding the automatic down at his side, and he walked over and kicked one of the logs in the fireplace so that it blazed up brightly. Frazier Farwell slumped in the chair in the corner. His shirt collar was open and his hands were bound behind him with his necktie. He didn't look up.

The windows brightened with arriving day. The first flakes of Wexton's story would be through the desk now, chattering in types.

would be working on it. The Blade would be standing on its head, a gaping hole waiting for the replate. Minutes ticked by. Wexton, at the desk, examined his hat and poked a pencil through the hole in the crown. He glared at the man in the corner, held it up for McGann to see. "Ruined this Stetson-type hat," he said. "With malice aforethought," he added bitterly.

Chary smiled at him gently. She was relaxed in the chair near the fire, her feet up under her, and she was still quite pale. "It'll be too small anyway, won't it? I mean saving our lives and getting the first story and all. Will they give you an Oscar?"

"Two of 'em," Wexton pushed the hat to the back of his head. "Siamese Oscars. Joined together by a belt in the back." The stereotypers could even have it now, and the pressroom standing by, ready to roll. The papers would flash out, still damp with the banner screaming, SOLVE TOMPKINS' MURDER!

McGann had walked over to the window, looking out, with an occasional glance at the motionless figure of Farwell. He turned back to the reporter. "It's time to spoil O'Callahan's beauty sleep."

Wexton sighed. "You wouldn't consider locking this guy up in the basement and printing the confession in daily installments, would you?"

"It's a wonderful idea. But I like this part of the country," he gestured. "Do your duty."

Wexton started to dial SPRING 7-3100. "It's so cozy here I hate to do this. But I guess if I don't I will never know how you figured it out."

Deputy Inspector O'Callahan showed white, even teeth and pulled the chair closer to Tompkins' desk. "I hope you can prove all this," he said. "We only know for certain that Farwell shot a hole in the hat of Mr. Wexton here."

"That's a crime," McGann pointed out. "Discharging firearms within the city limits."

"There were extenuating circumstances," O'Callahan turned his smile on the reporter. "Wexton was in it at the time."

Dink nodded. "My friend."

McGann looked around the room. A uniformed man stood beside Farwell, whose wrists now lay handcuffed in his lap. The disc jockey gazed at them with smouldering hatred. His pupils were beginning to widen as the effect of the drug wore off. A few more hours without a dose, McGann thought, and they wouldn't be able to muffle his singing.

He said, "Stop me if I'm wrong, Frazier." He beckoned to Dink. "For the next ten minutes you're going to be Ronnie Tompkins, dead and alive. I'll play Mr. Farwell's role but I won't try the voice."

NCAA BLACKLISTS QUAKERS

Penn Gets Some Backing
In TV Go-Ahead Stand

PHILADELPHIA, June 9—The University of Pennsylvania, blacklisted for defying the NCAA's football television policy, sat back today to await official action by other schools on the stormy issue.

Penn was declared "a member not in good standing" yesterday by an order announced jointly in Chicago by Dr. Hugh C. Willett, NCAA president, and Dr. Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Francis T. Murray, the Quakers' athletic director, said later he could see "no immediate bad effects" from the action which barred Penn from NCAA competition. The school has no such events scheduled in June.

The association's ban followed Murray's announcement that Penn intended to televise its 1951 grid schedule in opposition to the NCAA's plan to permit telecasting of only certain selected games.

Indications that the NCAA's solid front may be breached came when several of Penn's listed football opponents said they would go through with contests at Franklin Field.

ARMY INTIMATED that its game with the Red and Blue would be played as scheduled; Wisconsin announced it would keep its date at Madison, and William and Mary telephoned a similar assurance. Navy simply said "we are scheduled; we have a contract."

Unofficial disapproval of Penn's TV revolt was expressed by Cornell, Dartmouth, Princeton and Columbia, of the Ivy League, and California, of the Pacific Coast Conference.

Perhaps the most pertinent quotes on the muddled situation came from Col. O. C. Krueger, graduate manager of athletics at West Point.

Krueger commented that Army may televise its own games "if everything breaks wide open." And he added, significantly, that much "depends on that little school out in Indiana."

The colonel referred to Notre Dame, perhaps the largest football power to express opposition to the NCAA restrictions on television.

Some sources predicted that the Irish, with millions of followers throughout the nation, might swing the tide against the association's policy.

But in South Bend, Notre Dame officials kept silent on the issue yesterday and indicated that they'd take their time about reaching a decision. Penn and Notre Dame have a game slated for 1952.

IN THE MORE immediate future, it appeared that Penn's defiance of the NCAA might force a court test of the association's TV ruling.

Some lawyers said Penn could sue for triple damages under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act if its opponents cancelled games because of the NCAA's television decree. A decision for Penn, they said, would mean the end of the TV restrictions.

In announcing the disciplinary action against the Quakers, NCAA officials said the group would press for expulsion of Penn at their council meeting in Cincinnati next January.

'Horse College' Is Under Fire

NEW YORK, June 9 — New York state moved today to close down a "horse college" with 30,000 students from coast to coast.

Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein asked the state supreme court to dissolve Prosperity Institute. He supported his action with printed material designed to induce horse players to subscribe to courses on how to pick winners and set up their own handicapping systems.

Goldstein said the cost for one course, called "You Can Pick Your Own Winners," was $17 for ten lessons. Then there was a $15 post-graduate course of 13 lessons called "Master Selector Time and Key Charts."

Chandler said he has set no date for his resignation, but he talked readily about a severance pact he had presented the owners. The pact is designed to reimburse him for any financial loss he may suffer in suits now pending against organized baseball. Chandler said:

"All 16 owners must sign this agreement. They must agree to save me from harm. I'm being sued individually, personally. I don't feel I can resign until I have that protection and I think it's a just protection."

"I'm perfectly willing to co-operate with them all. I have no ill feeling toward anyone."

College Teams To Try Again
COLUMBUS, June 9 — Ohio State and Western Michigan, with the weatherman kibitzing from the sidelines, try again today to settle the matter of who will represent the district at the NCAA baseball finals.

Ohio State took the first game in a doubleheader with Michigan yesterday, 1-0. But the Broncos were ahead, 4-2, when rain forced postponement in the fifth frame of the second game.

The second tilt decides who gets the division four bid to the NCAA baseball finals June 13-17 in Omaha. All other pairings for the finals are complete, with only the Midwest hanging fire.

Argentine Ace Leads Tourney

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 9—Roberto De Vincenzo, the Argentine hotshot, is the man to catch today in the Palm Beach round-robin gold tournament.

De Vincenzo shot two sub-par 68s yesterday to wrest the lead from Bobby Locke, the South African stylist, with a plus-24 score. Locke had a plus 17, Jim Ferrier a plus 13 and Jimmy Demaret a plus 10.

Boxer Given 50-50 Chance
WASHINGTON, June 9 — Elijah "Little Dynamite" Williams, Washington featherweight, holds a slightly better than even chance today in his fight for light although he remains unconscious.

The 21-year-old fighter suffered a basal skull fracture and a brain hemorrhage when he was knocked by Gene Smith Thursday night in a bout in Griffith Stadium.

$150,000 Gate Predicted For Charles Walcott

PITTSBURGH, June 9 — Jake Mintz, manager of Heavyweight Boxing Champion Ezzard Charles, today predicted a $150,000 gate for Pittsburgh's first heavyweight title fight between Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott July 18.

The figure does not include possible revenue from radio and TV rights.

Fans will pay the highest prices in Pittsburgh history to see the 15-round bout. Tickets are to range from $2.95 to $25.

The $25 top will apply to all ringside seats. One reporter remarked that even "comps" won't be in too much demand because "who can afford to pay the $7.50 state-federal tax?"

But Mintz wasn't impressed. He said the $150,000 estimate was conservative and predicted the "greatest gate" in local history.

"There definitely won't be no TV for the Pittsburgh area," Mintz explained, "and I don't know whether we'll allow radio and television for the rest of the country."

Charles and Walcott signed yesterday to meet for the third time. Ezzard will get 40 percent of the gate, and Walcott will drag down 20 percent to try again where he has failed twice against the Cincinnati champion.

Heine Didn't Win Meet, But Sure Had Fun

Well, he didn't win — didn't even come close — but none of the contestants had any more fun than did Circleville's Dr. Walter F. Heine.

He was one of several score gray-haired golfers who entered the 1951 edition of the Ohio Seniors golf tournament held in Columbus Thursday and Friday.

Dr. Heine shot 92-97—189 in the tourney.

Allen Rankin, 57-year-old Columbus man, still is the Ohio senior golf champion.

Rankin successfully defended his title in a playoff with Johnny Roberts, 52-year-old Columbus linksman.

Winning the crown for the sixth time in seven years, Rankin took the playoff on the second hole with a one over five, to six for Roberts after they halved the first with four's.

The third man was Robert Stranahan, the sparkplug tycoon of Toledo, who scored 80-78—159.

Ben Neal, 60-year-old York Country Club star, fired a 77 for a two-day total of 154 and tied Charles Yontz of Columbus.

Herb Lape Jr. and Baxter Dungan of Columbus were two strokes higher.

Tony Vitt, Cleveland funeral director, winner of the title in 1949, hit 80 and 78 for a 158 card.

375 Entries At Painesville
PAINESVILLE, June 9 — Three hundred seventy-five horses have been named in the stakes for the 33-night harness racing season which opens at Painesville Fairgrounds June 1.

Early closing stake races with purses up to $2,500 have been scheduled for each night.

Flying Song, winner of his first start at the Toledo Fort Miami Raceway this season, heads the list of top flight entries carded for the Billy Edwards Trophy.

Total Red Losses Set By Army At 1,141,200 Men

WASHINGTON, June 9 — The Army estimated today that the Communists in Korea have suffered 170,576 casualties since May 16, bringing their total losses in the war to 1,141,200.

In the new estimate, the Army said the Reds had 144,576 casualties between May 16 and June 2. It estimated enemy losses since June 2 at 26,000.

The May 16 to June estimate covers the second phase of the Communist Spring offensive.

The new total of Red casualties represents a downward adjustment of enemy losses as estimated by the Army, which said some previous figures were in error.

Among the figures adjusted downward was the estimate of total Chinese Communist prisoners, which now stands at 10,220. This would mean that approximately 7,500 were taken during the two phases of the Spring offensive. The Allies held 146,091 North Korean prisoners.

On June 2, the "adjusted" total of enemy casualties stood at 1,115,200, broken down as follows:

Chinese Communists — 454,100 battle and 67,700 non-battle casualties, plus 10,220 prisoners.

North Koreans — 352,700 battle and 84,300 non-battle casualties, plus 146,091 prisoners.

Sheriff-Briber Is On Probation

BELLEFONTAINE, June 9 — A 48-year-old Bellefontaine man who admitted bribing a sheriff and a deputy and exhibited slot machines openly is under three years' probation today.

Louis W. Miller, the accused man, appeared late yesterday before Logan County Common Pleas Judge Elmer L. Godwin and pleaded guilty to indictments of bribery and slot operations.

Miller was to have gone on trial Monday on charges of bribing Former Deputy Sheriff Dalton G. McAdams to "overlook" slot machine operations.

Former Sheriff E. K. Sargent, indicted for accepting bribes from Miller and paying "hush money" to McAdams, resigned last fall.

Clock Loses Little Time

MURRAY HILL, N. J., June 9 — A new "master timekeeper" that varies about one second in 30 years has been developed here by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

The electronic device, believed to be the most precise in existence, draws its power from a large bank of storage batteries so as not to be affected by any failure in outside electricity flow.

Herring Scores Win Over Flood

NEW YORK, June 9 — Jimmy Herring, who isn't old enough to fight full ten-round bouts, continued today to cut a wide swath in middleweight ranks.

The Ozone Park, N. Y., battler defeated Jimmy Flood of New York last night in a featured eight rounder in Madison Square Garden.

The 19-year-old Herring had a 5-3 and 4-3-1 edge on the two judges' cards, although Referee George Walsh scored it a draw.

Herring, who weighed 157½ to Flood's 163, gave the plodding Flood a fancy boxing lesson in the early rounds. He tired, however, and several of Flood's wild, jarring haymakers found their target in the latter stages.

Next Week Due For TB Control Observance

Governor Frank T. Lausche has signed a proclamation setting aside next week as "Tuberculosis Control Week in Ohio." At the same time, Dr. Robert H. Browning director of the new Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital in Columbus, announced plans for an open house and Tuberculosis Institute on Thursday.

The observance of Tuberculosis Control Week and the announcement of an open house is to acquaint the people of Ohio with the services of the new tuberculosis hospital and to point out the fact that the control of tuberculosis continues to be a serious problem in Ohio.

In his proclamation, Governor Lausche pointed out that the efforts to reduce the deaths from tuberculosis had met with a great degree of success throughout the years. Through the use of new drugs and modern hospital care it is now possible to cure a great many more patients of their disease and to return them to a useful, productive life.

"But," said the Governor, "with all of the progress made, more than 1,600 persons died of tuberculosis in Ohio last year. Over 6,000 new cases of the disease were found. Health officials estimate that there are from 16,000 to 20,000 unknown cases of tuberculosis in Ohio today. Case finding programs and hospital beds are therefore extremely important. Repaving Job For North Court Seen Possible

Repaving of North Court street possibly will be undertaken sometime this year by the state highway department, according to George Crites, chairman of Circleville city council finance committee.

But there will be no repaving of Main street.

Crites said he and Mayor Thurman I. Miller have been informed by highway department officials that too many other places in the state are in more need of repair than Main street.

State highway officials, however, have promised to reestimate the cost of repaving North Court street, from Pleasant street to the corporation line.

"I think we will get it," said Crites.

Hospital To Cite Local Woman
